

ANNEX I

REFERRED TO IN ARTICLE 2.10 (REVIEW)

ENVIRONMENTAL PURPOSES – TRADE IN ENVIRONMENTAL GOODS

1. In order to determine whether goods contribute substantially to the environmental objectives of Chapter 2 (Trade in Environmental Goods), and for the purposes of listing environmental goods in Annex II (List of Environmental Goods), the following elements have been drawn upon and shall be used as part of future amendments to the list pursuant to Article 2.10 (Review):

- (a) the primary purpose or the purpose the good directly serves is listed in this Annex;
- (b) the use of the good as an adapted good is beneficial for a purpose listed in this Annex; or
- (c) the good directly relates to technical processes, installations or equipment whose primary purpose is listed in this Annex.

2. The purposes referred to in subparagraphs 1(a) to (c) are:

- (a) environmental protection purposes, which are the prevention, reduction, control and elimination of pollution and other forms of degradation of the environment, by means of the following activities:
  - (i) protection of ambient air;
  - (ii) wastewater management;
  - (iii) waste management;
  - (iv) protection and remediation of soil, groundwater, and surface water;
  - (v) noise, light and vibration abatement (excluding workplace protection);
  - (vi) protection and restoration of biodiversity, ecosystems and landscape;
  - (vii) protection against radiation (excluding external safety);
  - (viii) research and development for environmental protection; or
  - (ix) other environmental protection activities;
- (b) resource management purposes, which are preserving and maintaining the stock of natural resources including sustainable use and the transition to a circular economy such as through conservation, recovery, reuse, recycling of resources and use of renewable resources; and

- (c) climate change adaptation and mitigation purposes.
